The Saskatchewan Ministry of Environment has an exciting opportunity for a Senior Environmental Assessment Administrator in its Environmental Assessment and Stewardship Branch, where you will work with a dynamic team dedicated to supporting a results-based environmental assessment approach.

Reporting to the Applications Manager, the successful candidate will be responsible for the identification of emerging and ongoing environmental assessment issues and will play a leading role in administering The Environmental Assessment Act. The candidate will possess critical research, analytical, project management, and strategy development skills to deliver program activities. The candidate will provide advice to industry clients regarding the legal and policy requirements of environmental assessments in Saskatchewan. You will lead the inter-ministerial and intergovernmental reviews of proposed projects, coordinate public participation in the environmental assessment process, and develop recommendations regarding the environmental acceptability of major resource, industrial and public sector projects proposed in Saskatchewan.

The successful candidate will have knowledge of environmental assessment principles, including the evaluation of reliable and relevant technical information from a variety of sources and disciplines which may include: ecology, biology, hydrology, geology, chemistry, soil science, engineering, and economics. The competencies required for this position would typically be gained through a post-secondary or graduate degree in multidisciplinary environmental studies, economics, business administration, political studies, the natural sciences or a related discipline, supplemented with considerable related experience.

We are committed to workplace diversity.
