A P E G S

Association of Professional Engineers
& Geoscientists of Saskatchewan

Regulating the professions. Protecting the public.

Themes

Outcomes

Trust & Relevance

APEGS regulates the practice of engineering and geoscience in the public interest.

We protect the public from unlicensed and unskilled practice of engineering and geoscience.

Our members are engaged and understand the value APEGS brings.

We monitor and address issues affecting the sustainability of the professions in the public interest.

We advance societal impact initiatives in the public interest.

Right Touch Regulation

APEGS' regulatory standards and processes are proportionate to the amount of risk to the public.

We hold our registrants accountable to meet established professional standards.

We operate within an effective legislative framework that upholds good governance and is accountable to the government and the public.

Our processes are fair, timely and transparent; necessary and sufficient to protect the public.

Organizational Excellence

APEGS builds capacity and resilience through investment in people, tools, and processes.

Our business systems effectively serve members and employees.

We instill a culture of continuous improvement.

We are an employer of choice with an engaged, capable and progressive workforce.
