The Environmental Protection Branch of the Ministry is seeking up to five permanent and multiple term Junior Environmental Protection Officers with a strong background in engineering or science to support the delivery of results-based environmental protection programs across Saskatchewan.

As a Junior Environmental Protection Officer in the Environmental Protection Branch, you will be responsible for:

- Reviewing environmental impact statements for proposed municipal, industrial and mining operations and provide technical review comments regarding these developments;
- Reviewing applications and preparing approvals for the construction, operation and decommissioning of all components of municipal, industrial and mining operations related to raw product handling, processing, waste management, air quality, industrial waste and wastewater treatment, potable water treatment, sewage treatment, storage and handling of hazardous substances, and waste dangerous goods;

The ideal candidate will have:

- Demonstrated knowledge of provincial environmental legislation;
- Knowledge and awareness of environmental and public health and safety issues associated with municipal, industrial and mining operations including air, hazardous substances and waste dangerous goods;
- Knowledge of environmental monitoring and reporting at municipal, industrial or mining operations;
- Knowledge of geology, hydrogeology, biology, geochemistry, water chemistry, related inorganic chemistry as it relates to municipal and industrial applications and impacted site reclamation;
- Knowledge of compliance assurance policies and procedures in a Results Based Regulatory framework;

Typically, the knowledge and abilities required for this position can be achieved through a degree in engineering or science combined with related environmental work experience or equivalent combination of education and experience.

The headquarters for these positions will be in Saskatoon, Regina, or Prince Albert. These positions require independent travel to remote areas of the province and flexible work hours. As travel within Saskatchewan is necessary, the successful candidates must hold a valid Class 5 driver's license.
